...and so it goes

...& so it goes

following on the release of two outstanding recordings, 'walking through' and 'elixir', interchill is pleased to present the 3rd kaya project album "...& so it goes". the collaborative project of seb taylor (shakta, digitalis, hibernation, angel tears) and natasha chamberlain, kaya project once again weaves an uplifting and spellbinding journey to the furthest reaches of the planet.

focused on more acoustic instrumentation than the previous kaya project albums, "...& so it goes" is an exotic tapestry of slide guitar, klezmer, clarinet, classical indian violin and arabic mowals fused with tribal percussion, breakbeats and gypsy jazz. laced with seb's signature guitar work & natasha's keyboards, vocals and flute, the album also features a range of vocal contributions from the likes of deeyah, randolph matthews, irina mikhailova, florence comment and others.

taking the unmistakable kaya project sound to new levels, seb and natasha artfully create a warm and timeless musical experience, leaving the listener plenty of delectable elements to savor.

kaya project is the musical incarnation of seb taylor and natasha chamberlain. based in the uk, the duo has achieved a world renowned name via their first two albums 'walking through' and 'elixir' released on interchill records in 2004 and 2005 respectively.

a skilled musician, seb plays guitar and other instruments on many of the kaya project tracks as well as adeptly handling the programming and production. natasha contributes vocals, keyboard and flute throughout the compositions. over the years they have performed kaya project live sets at events in japan, canada, the us and australia.

since the previous 2005 album release, 'elixir', seb has been busy working on music for television, including the award winning bbc natural world documentary 'buddha, bees & the giant hornet queen', as well as composing original music for commercials and tv shows.
